

Travel

A guide to the most dog-friendly wineries in Napa Valley

It's time to plan a day of sipping and swirling with your favorite pooch.

Dana Rebmann, Special to SFGATE

Jan. 4, 2023

A woman cuddles her dog while enjoying a glass of wine.

ilbusca/Getty Images

With more than 400 wineries to choose from in Northern California's Napa Valley, there's an experience for everyone — including dog lovers. Much like the dog-friendly wineries in neighboring Sonoma, a legion of the best wineries in Napa take pride in spoiling four-legged guests.

If you're heading to Napa this year, this wineries list will help you plan a day of sipping and swirling with your pampered pooch by your side. The best part? The guide is sorted by city, so you can spend more time between grapevines and less time navigating the road.

Dog-friendly wineries in St. Helena

Alpha Omega Winery in St. Helena, Calif. features a pond and water fountains.
George Rose/Getty Images

Alpha Omega

With views of fountains, vineyards and the Mayacamas Mountains, the outdoor terraces at Alpha Omega winery are popular with dogs and their lucky pawrents. Furry four-legged friends on leashes are also welcome in the winery's indoor tasting room, as well as its lavish private tasting rooms. Filtered water in Alpha Omega-branded bowls and a seemingly endless supply of treats are the norm here. Reservations are always required.

Find it: 1155 Mee Lane at Highway 29, St. Helena, CA 94574, 707-963-9999

This story was edited by Hearst National Editor Kristina Moy; you can contact her at kristina.moy@hearst.com.

<https://www.sfgate.com/travel/article/dog-friendly-wineries-napa-17676743.php>